

The topic of my site is information about me about my past work because its purpose is to serve as a portfolio.

The site's three distinct main pages display my writing, multimedia content, and "about" information. The additional "Coming Soon" pages are for data journalism work and miscellaneous projects to be added in the future.

Extra #1: To make the menu to navigate between the pages appear and disappear, I used jQuery (which can be found at the bottom of every page). I used `.click()` so that when a user clicks on the menu, the content of the page disappears and the menu appears, and then when a user clicks on the back button, the menu goes away and the content of the page comes back.

Extra #2: To display multimedia content, I used iframes (can be found on multimedia content page). I have one iframe that, when the links above it are clicked, display different videos.
